Daubert Cromwell Appointee Named to Illinois District Export Council

ALSIP, IL -- Daubert Cromwell Director Global Business Development Scott Kotvis has been appointed to the Illinois District Export Council, an organization that promotes U.S. economic growth through exporting. The announcement was made by Richard Paulin, Executive Director of the International Trade Association of Greater Chicago.

Kotvis was among 31 Illinois business people appointed by the U.S. Secretary of Commerce to serve on the District Export Council. Selection is based on business expertise and ability to host, sponsor and participate in activities that help local companies learn how to export.

Kotvis, of Buffalo Grove, IL, has spent years working with the District Export Council to establish international selling channels for Daubert Cromwell, a global manufacturer of corrosion inhibitor packaging materials headquartered in Alsip, IL. Most recently, the Commercial Service International Partner Search program helped him locate distributor candidates for Daubert Cromwell in Spain. Today the company has subsidiaries in China, Europe and Mexico, and distribution in 26+ countries.

Kotvis is the second Daubert Cromwell appointee to the Illinois District Export Council. President & CEO Martin J. Simpson also served a 4-year term.

District Export Councils are organizations of leaders from local business communities whose knowledge of international business provides a source of professional advice for local firms. Recommendations are based on the individual's position in the community, knowledge of day-to-day international operations, and ability to help small-to-medium-size businesses learn the export process. Nominations are reviewed and confirmed by the U.S. Secretary of Commerce.

Daubert Cromwell is also a past recipient of the Export Achievement Certificate award, created by the U.S. Commercial Service to recognize small and medium-sized enterprises that have successfully entered the international marketplace for the first time or that have successfully entered a new market.
